In fact, I think it may be one of my favourites to play the game in. It's fun, it's challenging, it's rich and mysterious (the game oozes lore), and the music is cool. But I understand that it wasn't for everyone, which is why I have made this thread. What I'd like to do is, if possible, have all members of PDA repost their mod info in this thread so that the mod can receive more attention on CPMA. While I'm at it, in addition to the two other mods I'm working on, maybe we could collectively see what we all want to be changed and brainstorm for possible ideas. Mods aren't really my area of expertise, so I could be wrong about some things but perhaps the community could enlighten me on some additional ways to make the mod better. For instance, I might have a good idea for a mod that would make the game more "flowing" or "tight" or something like that. I could
